Stick Bugs

There are nearly 3000 species of stick bugs in the world. Most stick bugs look like sticks. They can hide in trees.

Stick bugs are brown. Stick bugs make interesting pets.

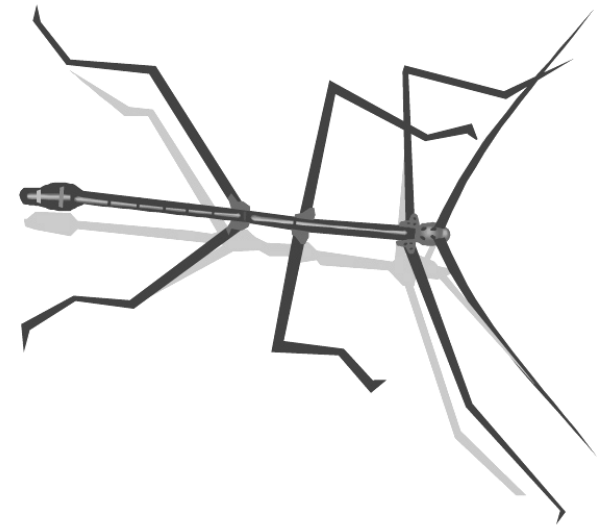

You can keep a stick bug in a small container. As they grow bigger you must get a bigger container. Stick bugs can be almost a foot long when full grown.

Most stick bugs come from tropical environments.

Almost all stick bugs eat blackberry or bramble leaves. They need a bit of water, too.

All stick bugs lay eggs. Stick bug eggs can take two months to one year to hatch, depending on the species.
