

BENCH DECORUM

Objective: The purpose of this paper/presentation is to summarize the points of emphasis and FIBA Rules regarding bench decorum.

Definition: Bench Decorum – appropriate conduct and sportsmanlike behaviour on the floor and bench.

1. Coach Communication & Conduct

- A head coach shall address the officials in a business-like manner.
- The officials appreciate that the head coach is under pressure during the season, that basketball is an emotional game by nature and not everyone will agree with the judgment of the officials. However, screaming, yelling, demonstrative gestures, charging officials, throwing objects on the bench, using offensive language, repetitive protests regarding the same issue, or overt gestures that undermine the integrity of the officials and the game will not be tolerated as they are unsportsmanlike in nature.
- A coach should not expect the officials to “explain” their calls throughout the game. If a coach has a specific question that is genuine in nature regarding a situation in the game, the official will respond accordingly.
- An official is not expected to provide an explanation after a technical foul that is called on a player or assistant coach. The Rules provide that a technical foul is to be called for unsportsmanlike behaviour and accordingly, the head coach should understand why any technical foul is called.

- A technical foul is to be treated and administered like any other foul: the foul is reported, the penalty is administered, and the game will continue with a throw-in at centre.
- After a coach has been issued a technical foul, the officials are not expected to explain why they called the foul, nor should their partners have any discussions with the coach regarding the technical foul.
- However, if the opportunity presents itself, an official may explain to the head coach the circumstances surrounding the technical foul.
- A head coach is not to enter the playing area and must remain in the team bench area during the game. Officials should work with coaches and remind them should they stray from this area. Should a coach leave this area to inappropriately interact with an official, it will be a technical foul. The team bench area is effectively the “coach’s box”.
- Officials must also understand their role as communicators and attempt to warn a coach where it is appropriate. Officials should understand when the intensity of a game is increasing and address emotional situations with coaches and players early in order to prevent technical fouls.

2. Bench Conduct (assistant coaches)

- Assistant coaches are not to remain standing or address the officials in a disrespectful manner.
- Officials will address this issue with the head coach, request assistance and expect cooperation.

- At the same time, officials will make every effort to avoid penalizing any such infraction prior to warning the head coach but there may be circumstances where a warning is not applicable.

3. Bench Conduct (players and team followers)

- Players on the bench and team followers are not to remain standing or address the officials in a disrespectful manner.
- Officials will direct the players to sit down, address the issue with the head coach, request assistance in preventing it from reoccurring and expect cooperation.
- As above, officials will make every effort to avoid penalizing any such infraction prior to warning the head coach but there may be circumstances where a warning is not applicable.

4. Player Communication

- Should a player need to speak to an official, it must be done in a respectful manner.
- The players should also expect that if an official must address an issue with a player, it shall be done in a respectful manner regardless of the reason for the communication (i.e. simple request, warning).
- The official may warn a player to prevent a technical foul and will attempt to advise the head coach of such a warning, but there may be circumstances where a warning is not appropriate and a technical foul must be called.

5. Player to Player Communication

- Taunting, baiting and “trash-talking” will not be permitted under any circumstance and will result in a technical foul.

6. Flopping

- FIBA Rules specifically address the issue of flopping in the Technical Foul Article (i.e. falling down to fake a foul).
- Flopping has become prevalent in the Canada West game and must stop as it is contrary to the spirit of the game.
- FIBA has directed its officials to warn a player who falls to the ground in an attempt to draw a foul (offense or defence) and to call a technical foul the next time it occurs.
- The head coach of the offending team will also be warned that the next “flop/fake” by their team will result in a technical foul.
- The warning will be issued in the first dead ball period following the inappropriate conduct and applies only to the offending team.

7. Fighting

- There will be no exception to the rule that substitutes or team followers who leave the team bench area during a fight, or any situation that may lead to a fight (i.e. physical or verbal confrontations on the court), shall be disqualified.
- The coaches and officials must make every effort to prevent players from leaving the bench area during this emotional time.

8. Communication with Table

- As provided in the Rules, coaches and assistants can only approach the table for statistical information when the ball is dead.
- Further, officials and coaches must remember that the table officials in Canada West are often students and volunteers, and should be addressed in a respectful manner.

9. Timeouts

- Conditional time-outs are not permitted. A time-out must be clearly requested by the head/assistant coach to the table and cancelled prior to the horn sounding.
- All players are to remain at the bench during the time-out until the horn has sounded. If the players come on to the floor during the time-out, they will be asked to return to their benches.

10. Substitutions

- Substitutes are to be seated at the “substitution area” at the table and ready to play.
- Shirts are to be tucked in and warm-up gear removed.
- All players are to be reminded by their teams that they are not to enter the court until they have been beckoned on to the floor.

Article 18 – Timeouts

Art. 18.3.1 - Only a coach or assistant coach has the right to request a time-out. He/she shall establish visual contact with the scorer or shall go to the scorer's table and ask clearly for a time-out, making the proper conventional sign.

Art. 18.3.2 - A time-out request may be cancelled only before the scorer's signal has sounded for such a request.

Art. 18.3.5 - During the time-out and during an interval of play before the beginning of the 2nd, 4th or extra period, the players may leave the playing court and sit on the team bench and the persons permitted to be in the team bench area may enter the playing court provided that the team members remain within the vicinity of their team bench area.

Article 19 – Substitutions

Art. 19.3.1 - Only a substitute has the right to request a substitution. He/she (not the coach or the assistant coach) shall go to the scorer's table and ask clearly for a substitution, making the proper conventional sign with his/her hands or by sitting on the substitution chair. Art. 19.3.4 - The substitute shall remain outside the boundary line until the official gives the substitution signal and beckons him/her to enter the playing court.

Art. 19.3.6 - A player who has committed his/her 5th foul or has been disqualified must be substituted immediately (approximately 30 seconds). If in the judgment of the official there is an unreasonable delay, a time-out shall be charged against the offending team.

Art. 19.3.7 - If a substitution is requested during a time-out or during an interval of play, the substitute must report to the scorer before entering the game.

Article 38 - Technical Foul

The proper conduct of the game demands the full and loyal cooperation of the members of both teams (players, substitutes, coaches, assistant coaches and team followers) with the officials, table officials and commissioner.

Each team shall do its best to secure victory, but this must be done in the spirit of sportsmanship and fair play.

Any deliberate or repeated non-cooperation or non-compliance with the spirit of this rule shall be considered as a technical foul.

The official may prevent technical fouls by warnings or even overlooking minor technical infractions of an administrative character that are obviously unintentional and have no direct effect on the game, unless there is a repetition of the same infraction after the warning.

A technical foul is a player non-contact foul of a behavioural nature including, but not limited to:

- Disregarding warnings by officials
- Disrespectfully touching the officials or the table officials
- Disrespectfully communicating with the officials or the table officials
- Using language or gestures likely to offend or incite the spectators
- Baiting an opponent or obstructing his vision by waving his hands near his eyes
- Delaying the game by deliberately touching the ball after it passes through the basket or by preventing a throw-in from being taken properly
- Falling down to fake a foul (flopping)
- Hanging on the ring unnecessarily
- Goaltending or interference during a last or only free throw by a defensive player

A technical foul by a coach, assistant coach, substitute, or team follower is a foul for disrespectfully communicating with or touching the officials or table officials, or an infraction of a procedural or an administrative nature.

Art. 39.2.3 - If a coach and/or assistant coach leaves the team bench area and does not assist or attempt to assist the officials to maintain or to restore order, he shall be disqualified.
